

FSA Customer Featured on National Television
Wednesday, May 3, 2017

The Bomber, a popular Oregon restaurant and landmark, is getting national attention.

This FSA customer (pictured above) was featured on Strange Inheritance, a Fox Business television show about the unusual items that people inherit, on Wednesday, April 26. The restaurant has had a B-17 bomber, named Lacey Lady, perched above it since just after World War 2 ended.

Marcus Irland, FSA Sales Representative in Woodburn, Ore., and Drivers Joan Canchola and John Tuss work with The Bomber.

In the photo above, Jamie Colby (l.), host of the Fox Business Network TV show "Strange Inheritance," is shown interviewing Punkie Scott (r.), daughter of late Art Lacey (Photo: Courtesy of B-17 Alliance Foundation).

The Lacey family is now restoring the B-17 Bomber. To see the preview of the episode featuring The Bomber, click here.

